Postpartum Support International (PSI) is excited to announce the launch of this comprehensive perinatal loss training for birth workers, therapists, nurses, and other psychotherapy and medical providers. This course takes you into the world of perinatal loss, inclusive of miscarriage, stillbirth, complex congenital anomalies, and pregnancy decision making. Participants will explore trauma-informed strategies, clinical techniques, and practical interventions to support bereaved parents, families, and providers impacted by loss.

Joanna Cole and Dvora Entin are content and clinical experts in the field of perinatal death and infant loss and will discuss interventions across the spectrum of care. With a passion for compassionate bereavement care and support of the grieving, our PSI trainers are renowned for their attention to the complexities of the loss experience on both macro and micro levels as well as the responsibility to de-pathologize and honor the grief process as a life experience. Join them in this collaborative, practical, and research-grounded learning experience.

Due to the highly sensitive nature of the subject matter, and to support interactive discussion and self-reflective practice, attendance will be limited to 75 participants.

Upon completion of this course, the participant will be able to:

- Describe the impact of the various forms of perinatal loss;
- Identify trauma informed options at birth to support grieving parents;
- List strategies to address compassion fatigue;
- Describe methods to support birthing persons, partners, and families as well as grief helpers and the medical responders involved in perinatal death;
- Identify key therapeutic interventions for grieving parents and families; and
- List perinatal loss resources within PSI and nationally.
